

WorkMate AI — Attendance Policy

Purpose: This fictional policy describes WorkMate attendance and time-recording practices.

Employees are expected to record attendance using the approved internal attendance system.

Attendance records should accurately reflect the employee's working period.

Employees are responsible for checking that required punch-in and punch-out events are recorded.

This document is designed for WorkMate AI RAG testing.

WorkMate AI — Working Hours and Breaks

Employees should follow their assigned working schedule and team-specific instructions.

Meal and other permitted breaks should be taken within the applicable workplace schedule.

Employees should return from breaks on time and continue their assigned work.

A break does not replace the requirement to maintain accurate attendance records.

Any team-specific schedule takes precedence where formally communicated.

WorkMate AI — Punch-In and Punch-Out

Employees should punch in when starting work and punch out when ending work, using the approved system.

Where the system requires a separate event for a meal break, employees should record that event as instructed.

Employees should verify the attendance portal after important attendance events.

An incorrect or missing punch should be reported through the approved correction process.

Employees should never enter false attendance information.

WorkMate AI — Missed Punch and Corrections

If an employee forgets a required punch, they should notify the appropriate manager or HR as soon as they notice the issue.

The correction request should include the date, approximate time, and type of missing attendance event.

HR or the authorized attendance administrator reviews correction requests.

Employees should not create duplicate or misleading attendance entries to compensate for a missed punch.

Repeated attendance-recording issues may require additional guidance.

WorkMate AI — Attendance Issues and Support

Technical attendance-system problems should be reported to IT support when applicable.

Policy or attendance-record questions should be directed to HR.

Employees should retain relevant ticket or request references when available.

Attendance records should be handled as employee-related information and not exposed unnecessarily.

Document status: Fictional WorkMate AI project policy for RAG testing; not a real company policy.
